Purpose and objectives: the Confederation sets for itself the task of defending both employed and unemployed workers' interests. It is the second largest trade unions confederation of Italy. It works on the conviction that society is better served through the promotion of interests of workers. Several fundamental shared values support such an approach: democracy, solidarity, pluralism and trade union independence from any economic power, employer, Government or political party. It firmly believes that employees, as builder of the wealth of their societies, are entitled to participate in, through collective bargaining and sociopolitical independent action by trade unions of their own choice, and contribute to the improvement of their life and that of their communities.
